

جامعة الفلوجة - كلية العلوم الاسلامية
قسم القرآن الكريم وعلومه

About The Department

The Department of the Holy Qur'an and its Sciences was created in the year 2017, and the department began teaching in the academic year 2017/2018, then the evening study was created for the academic year 2019/2020, after which the master's study was created in the year 2022, and studies began in the academic year 2023/2024.

Department Head's Speech

The Department of the Holy Quran and its Sciences at the College of Islamic Sciences at the University of Al-Fallujah is one of the pivotal departments on which the university depends due to its scientific capabilities, which are considered the university's showcase and a way to spread its activities and highlight its role in scientific forums. Therefore, we try to focus on adhering to rigorous education that meets the requirements of Sharia sciences and ways to facilitate their learning and dissemination, and to achieve the desired goal of providing effective outputs to the community with high efficiency, serving the houses of Almighty God in guidance, direction, and education, as well as graduating teachers according to the objectives of education and teaching in our beloved Iraq, and attempting to develop and update educational and pedagogical methods, keeping pace with the latest achievements in Arab and international universities, and maintaining communication