

Arabic Language Department.. Definition and description

The Arabic Language Department was established in the College of Islamic Sciences - University of Fallujah in the academic year 2009 - 2010 AD, according to the esteemed ministerial innovation book, No. 3/8986, dated 7/12/2009 AD, due to the need for it. In order to continue caring for this noble language and preparing academic staff with this specialization for the Ministry of Education and Sunni Endowment schools, in addition to providing official departments with staff (linguistic corrector), preparing teaching staff to teach (General Arabic) in non-specialized colleges, and preparing specialized staff for the requirements of work related to usage. The linguist, such as (linguistic proficiency courses), (linguistic safety courses), and the linguistic expert for theses and dissertations in other specializations, and also in terms of societal need (the labor market), and supporting the literary and cultural movement in institutions that have a practical relationship with the use of the Arabic language, such as (such as ( The Union of Authors and Writers, the Journalists Syndicate, as well as cultural centers, literary forums, and civil society organizations.

The Arabic Language Department is concerned with teaching, studying, and researching the Arabic language based on the great scientific heritage of our ancestors since (Abu Al-Aswad Al-Du'ali, d. 69 AH) through the successive scientific eras to the requirements of the present era and the mechanisms of research and study in it. The study of scientific subjects and their decisions is integrated in the stage of preliminary studies. The two branches of the study of the Arabic language (Language and Literature), then the scientific specializations in the two stages of postgraduate studies (Master's and Doctorate) are separated into their two branches (Language and Literature). As for the scientific research aspect, it is carried out by the department's teachers in their scientific research, whether it is for scientific promotion or outside of scientific promotion through research. Or writing according to each teacher's specialization and path in scientific research.

The Arabic Language Department contains various scientific programs. In preliminary studies, there are morning studies, as the tenth batch graduated in the academic year (2023-2024), and they are continuing, thanks to God Almighty, and there are evening studies, as the eighth batch graduated in the academic year (2023-2024). AD, and is continuing, thanks to God Almighty. In postgraduate studies, there is a master's program in the language branch, which was introduced in the academic year (2020-2021), and there is a master's program in the literature branch, which was introduced in the academic year (2021-2022), and there is a doctoral program in the language branch. Which was created in the academic year (2023 - 2024), and the department also has solid scientific energies that hold scientific titles in the various linguistic and literary sciences specializations. They perform their role honestly and accurately at the level of teaching and scientific research in addition to the administrative work assigned to them, while being open to the surrounding environment. Cultural and Literary University.

The Arabic Language Department has scientific programs related to workshops, seminars, courses, and scientific conferences carried out by the department's teachers throughout the academic year to serve scientific research in the two branches (language and literature). The department also has activities in literary, artistic, and cultural creativity in classical Arabic poetry, artistic prose, Arabic calligraphy, and Islamic ornamentation. In the department, there are teachers who are members of the Union of Writers and Writers, the Syndicate of Iraqi Calligraphers and Illustrators, and the Syndicate of Iraqi Journalists. We can give a detailed description of the reality of the department in the academic year (2023-2024), and the number of professors is: (37) who hold academic titles with various linguistic and literary specializations. The study system is a semester system for morning and evening studies, and the department also has a master's study program in the two branches (Language and Literature), and it will open, God willing, in the academic year (2024 - 2025) AD (the doctoral study program for the language branch), and the department grants the students who graduate there a certificate. (Bachelor's) in Arabic Language and Literature.

Department vision, mission and goals :

•Department vision:

Commitment to solid education that meets the requirements of the Arabic language and means of facilitating its learning and dissemination and achieving the desired goal of providing effective outcomes to society with high efficiency consistent with the sciences of revelation, with a contemporary academic vision and a moderate and fruitful intellectual approach in accordance with the goals of education. And education in our beloved Iraq, and improving the reality of the classical Arabic language as a lesson and practice , and continuing efforts and communicating them with Arab and international organizations as well as with civil society organizations, and descending into the societal reality surrounding constructive interaction in spreading intellectual awareness of the importance of the mother language and the necessity of caring for it for the sake of its continuity. The survival of the classical Arabic language in all cultural, scientific, and humanitarian corridors , local, Arab, and international.

•Department Message:

The department seeks to spread the Arabic language about The way to produce promising energies in the service of Arabic and its scientific and creative heritage , communication with cultural and literary centers and positive community interaction in a way that spreads linguistic awareness and Arab literary taste in prose, poetry and linguistic use.

•Department objectives:

1. Preserving the Arabic language by considering it the language of the Holy Revelation.
2. Ensuring the integrity of the Arabic language and controlling the mechanism for establishing scientific and linguistic terminology.
3. Studying the Arabic language and its literature is a serious scientific study in order to serve the requirements of the times and preserve its achievements and position among the world languages.
4. Preserving the literary heritage of the Arabs and trying to study and develop it.
5. Absorbing modern scientific theorizing in its study of languages and harnessing it in the service of Arabic and its literature.
6. Developing scientific curricula in research to serve the language and give it its due.
7. Communicating with civil society organizations to serve the learning, teaching and use of the classical Arabic language.