

Speech of the Head of Arabic Language Department

Head of the Arabic Language Department

Phd. Dr. Muhammad Al-Haj Hadi .

It is not strange for nations to be concerned with their languages. Language is the vessel of thought, the transmitter of civilization, and the carrier of development. Rather, language is man. If we look at language as a specific description of a nation, we find that our Arabic language has been at the forefront of languages since it became the language of the Holy Qur'an, with its characteristics. Perhaps it is The most important of them are the depth of the roots, the continuity of use, the sobriety of composition, the accuracy of expression, and the great store of the origins of words and structures.

The Arabic language is one of the most important links of the Arab nation through which it grows, develops and flourishes. Hence, the Arabic Language Department had an authentic presence in Arab universities, including Iraqi universities. Our Arabic Language Department in the College of Islamic Sciences at the University of Fallujah is only one of the tributaries of these scientific departments that It bears the banner of this noble language, and since its founding in the year (2009 - 2010) AD, it has been a pioneer in the accuracy of work, the sobriety of performance, and the quality of achievement. Praise be to God Almighty, it has reached an advanced threshold in the educational process and research achievement in accordance with the requirements of quality assurance and academic performance. The department was keen to develop curricula A scientific study that explores the linguistic and literary sciences and the history of the Arabic language from the pre-Islamic era to the modern era, with a future outlook in serving the Arabic language and its development, in addition to paying attention to scientific research in postgraduate programs and the writings of teachers and their research products.

The department carried the torch of preserving the integrity of this Arabic language and continuing to care for it in study, teaching, research and creativity. Its scientific seminars, training courses, workshops and all its related things were moving with confidence towards keeping pace with scientific development in linguistic and literary studies and openness to the creative environment in cultural forums and literary unions. In order to serve the department's goals, mission and vision in serving the community and fruitful communication with creative and academic institutions.